

THE TRIBUNE

A SUPREME COURT OF ADVERTISING

Investigated Advertisements Indorsed by The Tribune.
Fee Charged for Investigation Arranged in Advance.

Under this classification the man or woman of character and ability wanting employment; the responsible employer wanting reliable and efficient help; the man or firm desiring capital for their business, or those wishing to dispose of anything that will stand the fullest investigation, may go before the readers of The Tribune with their statements indorsed by this paper.

APPLICANTS who seek information about "The Tribunal" invariably ask us what we can do for their particular problem. It is a fair question, and we answer in as fair a manner as we know how, but we always conclude by saying that a careful advertising representative would not guarantee specific results from advertising.

We know that advertising pays; experience has demonstrated that advertising has accomplished wonderful things in specific difficult cases, and we also know that from sample advertisements appearing under this classification letters like the following are received:

Sept. 17, 1913.
000, New-York Tribune.
Dear Sir:
Noticing your advertisement in to-day's Tribune, I wish you would drop me a line where to address you so that I can make an appointment to see you. I have an opening for a good salesman. Yours truly,
Signed _____
Address _____
New York City.

The advertisement which inspired the above letter was a sample one; there was no intention to inspire replies, and yet these replies do come with unfailing regularity.

This is pretty good evidence that "Tribunal" advertising will bring results.
It will probably demonstrate to an analytical person that an advertisement under this classification may solve his personal problem.

We are exacting as to references, we are careful as to the wording of the advertisement, so that it will not exaggerate or mislead.

We make our appeal to the unusual man or woman who is seeking to market unusual ability in an unusual way.

The ordinary worker can find ordinary situations with comparative ease through the ordinary channels. The higher the grade of employment sought, usually the harder it is to locate.

The purpose of this department is to inspire the business man to turn naturally to the advertisement appearing under "The Tribunal" when in need of an unusual employee.

This can be done only by protecting and fostering his confidence by a strict adherence to honest and conservative statement after a careful investigation of references.
